...I was the person who... I was muttering to myself: barring acute mental imbalance, why would anyone come out on a night like this to watch a 2-man band. Especially when one plays a digital squeeze box and the other an acoustic licorice stick.

Now don't misunderstand. I love music and I enjoy concerts — except those where my ticket got me a seat in front of speakers piled from stage to ceiling ensuring that everyone in the county can hear the screaming and wailing — but this was a lousy night for geezer to be out of the house.

I walked into the warm theater, said hello to Bernie, Cai and Bill, got my ticket punched and, surprised by the number of people who turned out, followed my wife to a pair of seats. I couldn't talk to anybody on the way out.
