Amy and James | U of T Wedding | Toronto Wedding Photographers | June 13, 2009 (Massey College)

Amy and James met studying political science at The University of Toronto, when James was asked to walk Amy home one night.

It is only fitting that they chose to get married at Massey College on the U of T campus.

Their daughter eagerly watching the ceremony.

Amy and James wrote their own vows, which brought some laughter through the crowd.

The two families merge.

They made time to get in a laugh with their daughter after the ceremony.

They wanted to emulate their parents wedding photos (see left image). Here is Massey College (right image.)

Guests had to come up with a rather structurally unique poem to get the couple to kiss.

They had a pinata for the numerous children in attendance and children at heart.

The cake was homemade with Guinness and chocolate. Afterwards, there was an extremely entertaining magic show that was enjoyed by all.

They danced the afternoon away.

Congratulations, Amy and James!
